DEATH OF MR. DICKERSON.

Impressive Funeral Services Over His Remains at Vine Bower.

Col. W. R. Dickerson died at his home near Buford's last Friday evening at 1 o'clock after nearly six months of wasting sickness.

He was born in Virginia and came to Tennessee quite early where he built up a fortune and raised a family who idolized him for his tenderness and indulgent love. The funeral took place at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

Neighbors and friends for miles and miles around were in attendance, the spacious mansion and the lawn being crowded. The services were opened by a song by some Pulaski friends of the family and a prayer and scripture reading by Rev. D. L. Wilson, after which Rev. W. H. Groves delivered a masterly funeral oration from Hebrews xi. 16: "But now they desire a better country, that is, a heavenly; wherefore God is not ashamed to be called their God: for he hath prepared for them a city." It was followed in solemn and impressive thought and was delivered with much fervor and effect. The choir sang "Asleep in Jesus," "Shall We Gather at the River" and "Sweet By and By," the favorite songs of the deceased.

During the singing of the final hymn the friends filed in and out the parlor to take a last view of the dead and immediately afterward the pall-bearers took charge of the massive silver-mounted casket and conveyed it to the grave, appropriately located on an eminence overlooking the beautiful expanse of broad acres which have been for about a century the theatre of activity of a successful farmer and stockman. The old-time friends of Col. Dickerson were chosen as

HONORARY PALL-BEARERS:
Messrs. David T. Reynolds, Newton White, Robert Laird, J. B. Childers, J. B. Starny, Robert Caldwell, B. F. Carter, J. P. May, J. M. Farmer, Jno. C. Brown, Thos. M. Jones, Dr. E. Edmondson, Dr. C. C. Bernhardt, Dr. Jno. T. Steele and Dr. Thos. B. Harwell. These preceded the casket bearing the flowers and garlands which had been prepared to adorn the last resting place of the dead. The majority of the bearers were Capt. J. D. Flaith, Judge P. M. Babcock, Dr. Campbell, Capt. K. K. Blackburn, Capt. R. A. Mitchell, Messrs. F. G. W. C. Smith and Geo. T. Riddle and M. C. Fitzpatrick.

THE FLORAL DECORATIONS
were from Curry's Floral Conservatory, Nashville. The largest and handsomest was a "Gate of Aja," a large white dove with wings outstretched heavenward. A handsome cross with anchor on its base; a bible of pure white flowers, edged with pansies and bearing the words, "Sleep in Jesus"; a pillow with the words, "At rest"; a Maltese cross with the words, "He is not dead, but sleeping"; and a handsome floral lyre.

The floral decorations completely covered the casket and grave. Near the casket was placed the vacant chair of the beloved husband and father, together with his cane. Upon the arm of the chair was a sheaf of wheat, emblematic of the grain ripened for the reaper. A picture of the departed also stood near the casket, flower-trimmed and draped in crepe.

The funeral proceeding throughout was sadly impressive, nothing being omitted to testify of the unpeakable grief that had befallen a happy household.

Mrs. Dickerson was pre-eminently a man of activity and business habits, exacting to the last degree for all that was his, but equally yielding to his wife's demands upon his time and energy. He was a fortune and leaving it intact. He was a leader among men, being of that caste of character that commands rather than invites, a will of iron, yet withal as tender and affectionate in his home life as a loving woman.

He never fully recovered from the severe shock of the death of his wife, two sons who died within two weeks of each other some fifteen years ago. He leaves his wife surviving and six daughters, four of them married, and all of them present and tenderly watching and ministering to him to the last moment. He died in full faith of a blessed immortality.

His only daughter, Phebe Dickerson, who since early childhood had been a prominent and well loved member of Giles county, was born at Lynchburg, Va., Oct. 21, 1811. His parents died when he was just 3 years old and he was reared by his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Royall of Richmond, Va. Being wealthy they indulged their favorite grandson to a marked degree, giving him a liberal education and every advantage that money could confer.

When he was a very young child they emigrated to Tennessee, bringing with them their household possessions and a few slaves. He was a very successful and wealthy man, and he was left to begin his life's struggles upon his own account, living with his two sons.

Misses Kate and Sarah Royall.

To these he paid afterwards the debt of gratitude, they being members of his household until their death.

He was a youth of great promise, of handsome personal appearance, and wonderful business tact. He was married Aug. 18, 1843, to the beautiful Miss Stone of Marshall county, he being twice her age at the time of her marriage. In the half century, nearly, of married life, he has always lived at the same home which his industry and providence had accumulated, and where he has just peacefully passed away. There was a wonderful magnetism about the man, and very few attain to as great popularity. It will be long before friends and neighbors cease to deplore a loss so great.

Advertising Pays.
Mr. Patterson, the photographer, has been overrun with work in enlarging photographs since he began advertising it. His work is splendid and speaks for itself. He is now making photographs in a hurry. Some of his work is not beaten by anything we ever saw. He will leave for Shelbyville about the 10th of June, and then to Louisville and thence to Elkhorn in August. You'd better get that picture taken at once.

Tok Laudamm.
Mrs. Annie Butler Reese, wife of our operator, got up in the dark one night last week to take some thing for her cough and she got hold of the landlady's bottle and took a very large swallow from it. Directly the effect alarmed them and the mistake was discovered and Dr. Abernathy speedily summoned. By very vigorous treatment a fatal termination was narrowly avoided. After she was pronounced out of danger she slept over a day and night.

Mr. Thos. W. Pitman was united in marriage yesterday morning at 3 o'clock with Miss Nora Hayes, the ceremony taking place at the Catholic church by Rev. Father Trost.

Mr. Pitman is a man of sterling worth and is a great kind of the lady with whom he has linked his destiny is very accomplished. We wish them much success.

Hanna Creek.
BY YOUNGSTOWN.

Farming in this neighborhood is quite forward. The majority of our farmers will finish planting corn this week. The prospect for an abundant fruit crop is good.

Miss Hattie Hale opened school at the Hill school house on the 2nd inst. with 13 pupils.

Mr. Wiley Murphy of Maury county was visiting at her father's, T. C. Murphy's, house on the 2nd inst.

Communication services were held very much enjoyed by all present and reflected great credit upon the young debaters.

Arrangements are being made with some of the best lecturers of the county to have public lectures on education for the benefit of this school and community. Hon. Z. W. Ewing of your city lectures at this place Friday, the 27th, at 1 o'clock.

Abernathy's Academy.
BY E. M.

This week will end the fourth month will be spent in reviews and preparing for the close. Quite an extensive program has been selected and the preparations are progressing rapidly.
